

Prayer Diary: Nepal

16-21 November 2025

Sunday 16 November

'How good and pleasant it is when God's people live together in unity!' (Psalm 133:1). Pray that a spirit of unity would prevail among Nepali citizens of all religions and beliefs today.

Monday 17 November

Prominent voices have been demanding the reinstatement of the Hindu state of Nepal and its monarchy for months, sparking increased hostility towards religious minorities. Ask God to raise up leaders who would counter sectarian narratives and champion freedom of religion or belief for all.

Tuesday 18 November

In March this year, six Christians were taken into police custody for four days – reportedly for their own safety – during violent protests organised by Hindu extremists and pro-monarchy groups in Kathmandu. Pray that the authorities would find fairer means of protecting religious minorities in the country.

Wednesday 19 November

Because of their inter-caste marriage, Satyendra Ram and Neha Rauniyar were subjected to repeated police harassment in February this year. Ask God to protect them, and to change the hearts and minds of those who discriminate on the basis of caste.

Thursday 20 November

Pray today for human rights defenders, lawyers and journalists in Nepal who have faced increasing threats and harassment in recent years. Ask God to encourage and fortify them, and to bring to justice those who would seek to harm them.

Friday 21 November

Over 6,500 Nepali-speaking Bhutanese refugees continue to live in legal limbo. Ask God to provide for them, and ultimately to move the obstacles that currently stand in the way of them finding shelter and refuge.

Saturday 22 November

King Jesus, we lift the nation of Nepal to you at this politically tumultuous time. May voices of reason and peaceful coexistence prevail over those of nationalism and discrimination. Amen.
