

connect & encourage

Write to someone facing injustice for their beliefs.

For someone who is experiencing harassment, violence or imprisonment because of their religion or belief, a letter from you can be a lifeline of hope. They also show prison authorities that the world is watching, which has led to prisoners getting better treatment in the past. Your words really can change lives! Find more tips at csw.org.uk/connectencourage

Is it ok to include Christian greetings and scripture verses?

Most of the people in Connect & Encourage are Christians, and we encourage you to write appropriate scripture verses and Christian greetings. Including the relevant Bible verse references is useful for non-English speakers so they can look it up in their own language.

However, some are not Christians – we have indicated this next to their names. Please be sensitive to this when writing to them.

If the person you are writing to is a Christian, it's okay to send them cards that are obviously Christian. However, if you want to be safe, or the person you are writing to is from a different faith, cards with colourful pictures or landscapes on the front are always appreciated.

What if I can't write in the person's language?

Even if the person receiving your card can't read English, receiving a card can still bring them hope and encouragement by reminding them that they are not forgotten. However, if you can write in the language of the person – even if it is just a phrase or two – please do! They will appreciate your effort.

Will my letters actually reach the intended person?

Although some letters may be intercepted, most will reach their destination. Even if the letter doesn't reach them, it can still have a powerful effect by reminding governments that their case is not going unnoticed by the rest of the world.

Is it safe to include my name and address on my cards?

It is up to you how much personal information you put in your card. A pen pal relationship with someone who is facing injustice for their faith can be extremely inspiring! However, you may receive letters requesting financial help. Always contact CSW regarding these requests before you respond to them.

Can I send letters to every country where CSW works?

In some of the countries where we work, sending letters and cards could further endanger the recipients. Instead, please remember these people in your prayers, asking God to give strength, protection and comfort.

CSW everyone
free to believe

Writing tip: Many people appreciate a postcard with a bright picture on it: try to find something colourful and uplifting.

Eritrea

Many Eritrean Christians have been forced to flee their country due to the severe oppression they experience on account of their faith. As they waited to be relocated to third countries, they have established their own worshipping communities. These are essentially refugee churches. Many of these Christians still live cautiously because the Eritrean authorities have been known to track down and harass people even outside of Eritrea.

The cards you've sent to the church in Kenya have been an amazing encouragement to many.

Sudan

It may be difficult for cards to reach Sudan amid the current conflict. For now, we ask you to pray instead.

Your prayers are urgently needed as the war has caused a desperate humanitarian crisis. The people of Sudan are facing the trauma of displacement from their homes, violence (including conflict-related sexual violence), hunger and famine.

Both warring parties – the Sudanese Armed Forces (SAF) and the Rapid Support Forces (RSF) – continue to target civilians and civilian infrastructure, including places of worship.

Pakistan

CSW currently understands that raising the international profile of individual prisoners in Pakistan may worsen their conditions so, on the advice of local partners, we've not included them in Connect & Encourage. At any time, there are hundreds of people in detention, without a fair trial. We urge you to pray for them and their families whenever you can.

Michelle Chaudhry, the daughter of the late Cecil Chaudhry (Senior), is a key partner of CSW in Pakistan.

Pray for Michelle to have the necessary resources to run her programmes and projects, and for protection for the CICF staff. Please write to Michelle encouraging her.

Michelle told us, 'I want to say thank you to everyone who has sent me cards. We've received over 200 cards from CSW supporters. I'm so touched and it was overwhelming for me.'

Michelle and her team would be delighted to write back to you in thanks for your encouragement! If you'd like to receive a reply from them, please include your address in the card.

Greetings from The Cecil & Iris Chaudhry Foundation!

I'm writing to express our gratitude to all CSW supporters who take out the time to send us messages of love and support. We are so touched and emotionally overwhelmed!

We in Pakistan live under very trying circumstances, religious persecution and intolerance at every level; there is so much pain and sadness in our world that frustrations and despair easily find their way into our lives, and it is at that time that we feel so encouraged and strengthened to know that we have wonderful people out there who care and are praying for us.

I thank each and every one of you for your concern, your sentiments, your prayers and your continuous support. It is people like you who give us the strength to carry on; it is people like you who give us hope that all is not lost in this bigoted and intolerant world.

You strengthen our resolve to stand firm in the face of evil as we fearlessly continue our fight for a just and tolerant Pakistan.

May God bless you all abundantly!

Pastor Wang Yi

Pastor Wang Yi was detained along with over 100 other members of Early Rain Church on 9 December 2018, in a large-scale crackdown by the authorities. He is serving a nine-year prison sentence for 'inciting to subvert state power' and 'illegal business operations'. In October 2021, he was allowed to receive a visit from his wife for the first time.

These are the words Pastor Wang Yi reportedly wrote after his trial: 'If anyone attacks me, I will be as meek as a lamb. If anyone attacks the church, I will be as brave as a lion. If this is from the Lord, I will not open my mouth. I gave my opinion on those in power out of love rather than hatred...Only by being obedient when arrested could I let all see that I was truly motivated by love.'

Colombia

The illegal armed groups that are present in large parts of Colombia continue to restrict religious activities, and churches are frequently extorted by them. Religious leaders are often in grave danger because of the influence they hold in their communities. To preach peace – or even praying out loud for an end to the violence – can be to risk everything.

One pastor from Aguachica was crying as he told us that they feel powerless and fearful for their families: 'We go into the streets with fear... Please do not leave us alone; today, every word of support means so much.'

Members of indigenous communities

Members of indigenous communities who have converted to other faiths or no faith – and therefore away from the religious beliefs and practices promoted by their community leaders – face suffering and severe discrimination within their communities. They may be threatened with forced displacement or excluded from certain benefits by indigenous authorities.

In some indigenous reserves, religious minority children suffer daily discrimination because the school curriculum is designed to comply with traditional beliefs.

Please write to them care of the following address. Since there are so many, and new cases occur on a regular basis, it's best to address your cards generally and let our contacts distribute them.

Community of Betania

Most members of the Betania community have been attacked for defending their faith in Christ by indigenous leaders who, at different times, have allied with guerrilla groups to persecute them. They were stripped of their school, where they taught biblical values, and their church, and several Christian leaders from the community have been physically assaulted.

One young man joined an armed group, believing they would help protect Christians from persecution; however, a few months later, he was killed. His cousin, also a teenager named Eydar, joined the guerrilla forces as well, but he managed to escape alive and later continued his studies in a school established by Christians outside the reservation. This school was created as an alternative to teach nonviolence.

The teachers there receive no salary and must remain vigilant to prevent attacks from violent groups on their new school. The pastor was threatened in October 2025 and ordered to leave the community because he refused to accept all the conditions imposed by the traditional indigenous leaders — such as reconciling without restitution or continuing to endure economic discrimination due to his Christian faith.

Ramón and Adya Rigal were released from prison in 2020. The children were forced to return to the school, where they continue to be singled out and ridiculed.

Changes in Cuban law make it easier for the government to remove children from the custody of their parents, leaving the family living in fear.

Pastor Mario Jorge leads the Mighty Winds Ministry, an unregistered denomination. Due to the 'illegal' status of his church, he is constantly harassed by the police and remains under surveillance.

A travel ban on Mario Jorge has been lifted and he has been encouraged to leave Cuba on the condition that he doesn't return. However, his wife Velmis is still not allowed to leave Cuba, so he is staying as well, in order to avoid a potentially lengthy separation. Their daughters have already been forced into exile and the separation has been very hard on the pastor and his wife.

Jorge Martín and Marta Perdomo

Jorge and Marta are Christians, whose two adult sons were imprisoned for participating in the peaceful protests of 11 July 2021. Their sons, Jorge and Nadir, have been blocked from receiving a Bible and visits from a chaplain in prison.

Meanwhile, the Cuban authorities have used tactics to try to isolate Jorge and Marta and stop them speaking out for their sons. For example, they were barred from attending the Baptist church they have attended all their lives, after the pastor was threatened by the government. Jorge and Marta tried to attend other churches, but the authorities threatened the leaders of those churches too.

Yeremi Blanco and Yarian Sierra

Pastors Yeremi Blanco Ramírez and Yarian Sierra Madrigal are tutors at the William Carey Biblical Seminary in Matanzas. They are associated with the Berean Baptist denomination.

Both pastors were arbitrarily detained amid the unprecedented protests which swept Cuba on 11 July 2021. For two weeks, they were held incommunicado in the women's prison in Matanzas.

During this time, Pastor Yarian's wife and young child were forcibly evicted from their home. Their landlord had been threatened by Cuban State Security that he'd lose the property if he didn't evict them. As a result, Yarian's family stayed at the local church during his detention, but following his release they are now living with Yeremi.

Thanks from Cuba:

"God always talks to me through the letters [from CSW supporters] and gives me the word I need at that moment." (Anonymous Cuban pastor)

"Today I got very excited. This hasn't happened for months. Receiving so many letters from different people from other nations, my brothers and sisters in faith, saying they pray for us is a very beautiful thing. They all arrived together, as if [the authorities] been holding them."

"I received several letters of encouragement from the UK...They are such a blessing and encouragement. Thank you."

Pastor Lorenzo: 'I saw the love of Christ reflected'

So many of you wrote to Pastor Lorenzo Rosales Fajardo in maximum-security prison, and we were blessed to receive several letters in return. He was sentenced to seven years for peacefully protesting on 11 July 2021. But we praise God that he walked out of the prison gates in January 2025, having served three and a half years.

He sends his heartfelt thanks for all you did to call for his freedom and encourage his family:

"During the darkest moments, when the walls seemed to close in and human hope dwindled, your supportive voice and Christian witness reminded me of the words of the great apostle Paul:

'We are hard pressed on every side, but not crushed; perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not abandoned; struck down, but not destroyed.' (2 Corinthians 4:8-9)

You were living evidence that the body of Christ transcends walls, governments and geography.

Thank you for every word you sent me. In every action taken for my cause, I saw the love of Christ reflected, who is not silent in the face of injustice."

Please keep Pastor Lorenzo and his family in your prayers, and send them an encouragement:

Nicaragua

The Nicaraguan government – led by husband and wife co-Presidents, Daniel Ortega and Rosario Murillo – continues to crackdown on fundamental freedoms in an effort to silence their critics. Even preaching about unity or justice can be considered criticism of the government, and treated as a crime.

Scores of religious leaders have been jailed, forced into exile and stripped of their citizenship. Please pray and write to those who have been forced from the country.

Susana Marley Cunningham

Susana Marley Cunningham (affectionately known as Yapta Tara or Mamá Grande) is a Nicaraguan indigenous leader who was forced into exile in Costa Rica.

Mamá Tara helps members of the Miskito indigenous community who fled into exile after being targeted by the government. The government in Nicaragua is confiscating land belonging to the Miskito indigenous community and as a result, religious minorities, particularly those belonging to the Moravian Church, have been prevented from congregating, praying, and preaching freely.

Please send cards of encouragement to religious minority indigenous families, including those who have been forcibly displaced, care of the following addresses ordered by state. Since there are so many, and new cases occur on a regular basis, it's best to address them generally and let our contacts distribute them.
